Over Four Decades of Proven Construction Experience

Since retiring from a full-time highway and heavy construction career in 2003, Robert Lindquist has worked independently in various capacities for a variety of clients that include contractors, owners, engineering firms, toll road authorities and attorneys, as well as the Florida and Texas Departments of Transportation. He has worked independently to provide opinions, monitor or resolve disputes and to render decisions where negotiations have reached an impasse.

Robert approaches every assignment independently; he has been an expert witness for the prosecution and the defense as well as owners and contractors. His training, education, and extensive experience gained during his 30+ year construction career are used in the analysis of issues from every side of an issue. Taking continuing education courses every year for the past 40 years has enabled Robert to maintain his Professional Engineer, AAA and Contractor licenses up to date and keep him current with the latest engineering and construction trends in the industry.

Over the years, Robert has handled many large construction disputes in trial, arbitration, mediation and dispute review boards.
